Others plant trees and shrubs successfully - so can you!

Who Plants a tree loves others better than himself

Gentlemen: I first planted your tree seeds 16 years ago. I had very good germination and have blue spruce nine feet high now., lost some by fire. A Chinese Elm is 25 or 30 feet high. I am satisfied and am a frequent buyer. It is very interesting to raise trees from seed. I take more pride in raising them this way than from buying seedlings. Send me your new price list.

Gentlemen: The Douglas Fir Seed I got from you in June brought me two inch seedlings in late July, and very good germination. I have been planting your seeds for several years and am well satisfied with them.

"My previous order that I received this spring is doing fine. I have an average of 75% germination.

I am sending you another order of $7.00 for seven regular packets and one jumbo packet.

Gentlemen: I planted 27 different kinds of seeds which I secured from your firm, Tree and Shrub Seeds. I was successful in getting good germination with 25. I had a little trouble with damping off but stopped that with Cuprous Oxide, sprinkled between the rows of seedlings after removing shade. I was well pleased with your seeds.

Gentlemen: Please send me your latest price list. The elm seed you sent me, germinated well. You wanted to know how they did. They are now about thirty feet high, and the caragana has made a fence that shuts off everything on the north. I probably should prune to hedge height; but like it natural, too.
